South competes at Rich Central

Default win

Hinsdale South will get a true picture of its abilities as a cross-country team Saturday, Oct. 13, when it competes in Saturday's Rich Central Invitational.

Originally scheduled as a boys' meet, it was expanded last week to allow for a girls' division.

South has not had much chance to test its runners against other schools.

"Not all of the schools in our conference have cross-country teams," South coach Sylvia Matczak said.

South chalked up another win Tuesday with a default victory over Morton West. Morton had only two runners.

Freshman Anne Schusler crossed the finish first for South; Sue Cutz was second and Mary Caridi was third.

Schusler, who competed for Eisenhower junior high last year, continues to be South's No. 1 runner.

Juniors Cutz and Caridi alternate the second and third spots.

"The fourth and fifth spots vary," Matczak said.

The Hornets had 13 girls out for the rookie cross-country team this year. Archery was dropped as an interscholastic sport and cross-country was organized instead.

Matczak will be working on cutting times for the conference meet Saturday, Oct. 20.

Streak broken

Well, it finally happened. After more than two years of undefeated play someone finally garnered more points than Hinsdale Central's tennis team.

Arlington outscored Central 17 to 16 in last weekend's Arlington Invitational.

Central, however, has not pressed the panic button.

"It just shows them they have to work," coach Jerilyn Barth said.

There were a couple of extenuating circumstances for the loss, however. First, Central's No. 1 singles player Sue Whitney was out of competition because of illness. And second, Central did win the meet based on the top two singles and doubles, normal state lineup.

Vicki Shields took over the No. 1 singles slot for the Devilettes and beat everybody but Benet's Jane Jarosz, losing to her 4-6, 1-6.

"The scores are deceiving," Barth said. "Every game was quite close."

Mindy Cushing and Caroline Barclay were the winners in the first doubles division. Anne Hutchens and Emily Mercker won the second doubles division.

Kim Cushing played the No. 2 singles slot, losing only to an Arlington Heights opponent and to Benet's Lisa Gleason.

Claudia Marozas played No. 3 singles, losing only to an Arlington Heights girl.

Kim Beard and Kathy Grubbs played No. 3 doubles and finished second. Kathy Bouchard and Andrea Fayette were second in fourth doubles.

Barth was not surprised at Arlington's show. "They are always strong," she said. "They always concentrate on doubles. They don't have an outstanding singles player, but they have lots of depth."

The conference tourney will be played this weekend at Lyons Township. There will be three singles and two doubles on both the varsity and junior varsity level.

Central should dominate the meet. Next week Central will play Barrington (originally rained out) Tuesday and Highland Park Wednesday.

Landis gains yards for fund

Todd Landis earned $70 towards the Hinsdale Central Booster club scholarship fund as he was this week's top rusher for the Red Devils with 70 yards.

Landis joins the ranks in Realty World Porterfield co.'s weekly donation to the fund. Last week the top ground gainer for the Red Devils was Riff Menza.

Each week of the season, The Doings will print the name and picture of the top Devil rusher. So far, $333 has been raised for the fund.
